Mr. A. Speakman Will Speak to Board of Trade

The regular meeting of the board of trade will be held in the Knox Church basement on Monday, December 10, when Mr. Alfred Speakman, M.P., will be the principal speaker.

Mr. Speakman's address will be on the "Marketing Act," of which he is one of the most notable exponents.

Marketing is the vital question before the producer today, and it is on the suggestion of the farmers, members of the board that the matter is brought up for discussion at this meeting. Mr. Speakman has made a special study of the Marketing Act and will be able to give a detailed outline of its working.

It is of special interest to the farmers, and it is hoped that a large number will take advantage of attending the meeting. Whether a member of the board of trade or not every man in the community is invited to attend.

Supper will be served by the ladies of Knox United Church at 6 o'clock after which the speaking will take place.

Saddle Stallion Goes To Saskatchewon

Mr. A. B. Young of Unity, Sask. has purchased two saddle horses from Mr. W. J. Fuller. His selection included a very nice two-year-old stallion and a brood-mare.

The stallion is sired by "The Dare, 19313," and his dam is an imported mare sired by "Dr. Jim," grandson of "Box Peavine," world's greatest saddle horse sire. He is a very fine colt and because of his breeding, quality, etc. should make a great show and stock horse.

Mr. Ramage of Greenwell, Man. also purchased a nice three-year-old black saddle-stallion of Mr. Rudiger, Deloraine, Alta. This stallion was also sired by "The Dare."

Mailmen Asking For Consideration

The rural mail-carriers are asking for a little consideration from the boxholders on the routes. They ask that, at least during the cold weather, no money, especially copers, be placed loose in the box. It should always be placed in an envelope. Letters should always be stamped—and the mail-carriers have stamps for sale at all times.

An old Scotch woman said to her pastor, "That was a grand sermon preached last Sabbath at the Kirk!"

"Seeking to test her sincerity he asked, 'And what was the text?'"
"Ah, minister," she replied, "I didn't know the text or the words, but I came home and took the false bottom out of my peckmeasure!"

Curlers Prepare For Good Season

The snappy weather of the last week has started preparations for the curling season. Mr. W. Pitt has been appointed caretaker and made a good start in making ice.

If the cold weather lasts it is expected that the wielders of the "broom and stones" will be limbering up to get into action early this next week.

The membership committee are busy getting the names of intending curlers, and the present outlook is for ten to twelve rinks. Several new recruits have already signed up, while most of the old curlers will also be on hand.

Any intending curlers who have not already signed up are asked to see Mr. Tom Johnson at the Barber Shop.

High School Hockey Boys Ready To Go

The only thing that is keeping the High School hockey boys off their skates is lack of ice.

The club has been organized, with Eddie Bulr as captain and George Julien as coach.

A league has already been formed comprising: Crossfield, Carleton Place, Didsbury, Olds, Bowden and Inuitfall.

While there are only two of last year's team available, a number of promising younger players are coming along, and they should be able to give a good account of themselves.

The boys have already ordered their sweaters, which will be black and white, with the largest number on the back that they can get.

European Countries Showing Some Sign Of Relaxing Nationalistic Trade Policies

Germany, Italy and France are showing signs of relaxing slightly their nationalistic trade policies, in the opinion of Dr. T. W. Grindley, chief of the Dominion bureau of statistics' agricultural division, who was a Canadian delegate at the Bad Ems conference of agricultural economists. But otherwise little indication of a relaxation in tariff and other trade barriers in agricultural products was visible at the parley.

Dr. Grindley went to Bad Ems accompanied by Dr. J. E. Atoner, professor of agricultural economics at Macdonald College, and Dr. W. A. A. professor of farm management at University of Saskatchewan, after attending the London wheat conference with John I. McFarland, head of the wheat pools' central selling agency. Views held by economists at the conference in Germany were "highly interesting" in the light of the world wheat situation, he said.

Internal conditions responsible for slackening of rigid trade policies in Germany, France and Italy were outlined by Dr. Grindley. Germany had a short crop, and has an import wheat, rye and coarse grains, some coarse grain coming from Canada, but most of it from Poland under a bi-lateral treaty.

Although France has a heavy surplus of soft wheat, hard wheat is needed for milling purposes, and that country is ready to take Canadian hard wheat. A broadening out of Mussolini's agricultural program in Italy indicates a lessening of the emphasis placed on wheat production there. Italy's wheat barriers may be somewhat relaxed as a result.

While fear of war cutting off food supplies may have been a factor in the initiation of the present agricultural policies in Europe, Dr. Grindley believes it is no longer an influence. The main idea seems to be to keep the large agricultural populations of Europe contented and prosperous.

From this point of view the policy pursued has been undoubtedly effective. Farmers in Great Britain and Germany are highly prosperous, comparatively, he said. The United Kingdom has not gone as far as other European countries in tariffs, but has gone farther in quotas and fixed prices. French and Belgian farmers with their small acreages cannot be compared readily with Canadians, but they too are benefiting from assistance and protection.

Sows Wheat From 'Plane

Soviet Union Finding Method Successful Over Wide Area

More than a million acres of grain, in preparation for the harvest of 1935, will be sown in the Soviet Union from aeroplanes.

Air-sowing, first tried experimentally in 1931, now has been declared a success. In the quality of work, sowing from aeroplanes equals that done either by hand or by tractor-drawn machines, the government's agricultural experts have found.

And the speed with which the job can be done is greatly in excess of any other method.

In 1932, it has been announced, each aeroplane engaged in sowing seeded between 1,000 and 1,200 acres in a day, planting a total of 1,000,000 acres, an area that will be somewhat increased for 1935.

In addition, it is declared, districts sown from the air showed a yield 10 per cent greater than similar fields sown by hand.

Aeroplanes equipped for grain planting carry seed in large tanks from which it drifts down to the land. Best results, it has been determined, are achieved when pilots keep an absolutely straight line between two markers set up to guide them, and shave the ground as closely as possible.

Also among the advantages claimed for the new method is that, from aeroplanes, superbly sowing an important advantage is that of the short fuselage summer is possible.

Aeroplane, it is pointed out, can pass over and seed fields which are inaccessible to heavy machinery because of the mud and melting snow.

WHAT DOES YOUR HANDWRITING REVEAL?

By LAWRENCE HIBBERT
(Grapho-Analyst)
(Can. Rights Reserved)

(Editor's Note: Not for a long time, has a series of articles aroused such interest in this series on Character from Handwriting. Hundreds of readers have written, requesting a personal analysis of their own writing, and the author invites you to send in for a reading. See the announcement at the foot of the article.)

This week, a gentleman from out West wrote to ask me for my advice. He is a writer, with two young children, and feels that he should marry again, so that his children will have the proper attention.

He has been corresponding with several individuals, and sends me specimens of his own writing, and that of his several correspondents, with a view to finding which one is most suited to him.

His own writing is that of a quiet unassuming man. There is little aggressiveness shown in his writing, and he is of a rather shy nature, somewhat aloof—not because he does not feel things, but because his nature is reserved. He has a strong capacity for feeling, but is backward in expressing that emotion.

His nature has a good deal of generosity. And he has a very cultured mind. He likes good literature, and art will have an especial fascination for him.

The writing of the lady I shall call No. 1 shows a very extroverted nature. She is at the back and call of her emotions. She has a quick temper, likely to flare out at any time, and will very likely do things and say things, in that mood, for which she will be sorry afterwards—after the damage is done.

She is generous, and there is a good deal of affection in her nature. And she exudes energy. She must be always on the go.

Here is the type that expresses itself in bridge parties, organized teas and social gatherings. She will be in her element as a club organizer.

Turning to the writing of No. 2, I find a totally different personality. She has an even temperament, well-balanced and unlikely to be over-revered on the one hand, or of the hysterical type on the other. She has a calm and even mind, and is a good home-builder. She is, in affection, but she is also kindly and is considerate of others.

I do not have to devote very much attention to No. 3. Her writing tells me at once that she is unchangeable. She is very deceitful, and shows marked attention to her own interests. She looks after herself, first, last and all the time.

I think my readers will have little difficulty in judging which of my correspondents' lady friends I recommended. No. 2 lady has all the qualities that will make her successful. She will not let her husband's ambitions; she will be kind and attentive to his children, and she will make him a good wife.

Let this well-known Grapho-Analyst tell you the secrets revealed by your handwriting. He will also tell you what your friends are really like. Send specimens of the writing you want analyzed, and enclose the coin for each. Send with the stamped addressed envelope, to Lawrence Hibbert, care of Winnipeg Newspaper Union, 175 McDermott Ave., Winnipeg, Minn. All letters are strictly confidential, and replies will be sent as soon as possible, but please allow about two weeks for your reply.

Some Alberta Products

Coal, Petroleum and Timber Among Important Items

Alberta is famous for its wheat, livestock, and mountain scenery, but it has other resources which are the basis of a substantial and increasing industry. Total coal production in Alberta for the eight months ended August 31 this year was 2,974,426 tons, compared with 2,197,166 tons for the same period last year. The eight-month production of petroleum for this year was 852,228 bbls. compared with 692,644 bbls. for the same month period of 1933. Timber products for the 1933-34 fiscal year showed an improved condition over that for the 1932-33 year; the lumber production being 55,208,052 board feet compared with 52,756,467 board feet in the previous year. Other lines of timber products showed similar increase.

Great Health Resort

Waters Of The Dead Sea Said To Have Beneficent Qualities

The extraordinary curative properties of the waters of the Dead Sea were referred to by Major T. G. Tulloch, R.A., in a lecture recently before the Royal Society of Arts.

"The water," said Major Tulloch, "is not only charged to the extent of twenty-five per cent. of salts having beneficial medicinal properties, but is also highly radio-active."

"The effect of a bath there is very remarkable, for it has an extraordinary, even so healthy as the sun itself, it is hardly credible, and although it is hardly credible, I have seen people emerge looking years younger than when they went in an hour earlier."

"Many business men come down every evening and their work for a week, for they find that the annual 'tonic' effect of the water strengthens them mentally and physically in a very short time."

The fact that the northern shores of the Dead Sea and its neighbors are so healthy is due to the annual "tonic" effect of the water, which is thought to be of great depth below sea level (the Dead Sea is 1,300 feet below the Mediterranean), and the climate there is thus unique, while there is sixty-six per cent. more oxygen in the air there than anywhere else in the world.

Finds People Honest

Illinois Farmer Says Stranded Car

Oscar Martin, farmer residing near Mason City, Illinois, has developed a great confidence in the honesty of the motoring public as a result of ten years of contact with motorists. Living near a state highway, Martin has been called on frequently late at night by motorists whose gasoline supply has given out. He always has kept a can of gasoline in an accessible place for such calls.

When a motorist calls at Martin's house late at night, Martin simply directs the person to the location of the gasoline supply and goes back to sleep. Over a period of ten years Martin has yet to accommodate a motorist who has failed to return the gasoline can and leave sufficient money to pay for the fuel obtained.

Losses from forgeries now total more than $250,000,000 annually.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

ANIMAL PICTURES

Although this snap was made in a zoo, it has all the "feel" of reality, because the bear avoided the boring of bars or barriers.

Animals from household pets to jungle giants—afford ideal snapshooting. For animals don't pose; they are always entirely natural and, as a result, interesting. Next to babies, they are the most "actors" in the world for the simple reason that they do not act.

To get good pictures of any animal the first essential is patience. It is quite possible that the family dog will stand up obligingly for you on command, but in picturing all other animals you'll find it necessary to wait for the picture you want.

And this brings us to the question what do you want in an animal picture?

Ten or fifteen years ago there was little in the picture business in all sorts of outlandish poses. The poor little tykes were dressed up, grappled up, and photographed as though they were puppets in a marionette show. To most people, however, pictures of animals that they really are have much more appeal.

You will probably prefer to snap a kitten as it plays with a string or a dog wrestling with a big stick.

Domestic animals, of course, offer real fun, and the more you can get them to come where the light is right. Open shade, on a bright day, will be found best. As

A Co-Ordinated Health Program For Canada Being Urged By The Leaders Of Welfare Groups

A co-ordinated health programme for Canada, wherein present health machinery would work more smoothly under a comprehensive nationally organized effort to preserve health and prevent disease, was urged by preachers, physicians, provincial and civic officials, and leaders of welfare groups in a series of addresses under the auspices of the Canadian Social Hygiene Council in Toronto during the last two weeks.

Suggestions ranged from formation of "a national health council" to stimulate provincial programmes and coordinate them with the federal programme of health, to a general programme of health education by governments and independent health organizations. There were more than 50 speakers, including the Mayor of Toronto, justices, judges and health directors of independent bodies. Organizations represented included the Canadian Red Cross Society, the National Council of Women, the Social Hygiene Council, city and provincial health departments, churches, independent welfare bodies and the Young Women's Christian Association.

It was contended by speakers that the value of health education had been proved by results of programmes directed to the prevention of venereal diseases, tuberculosis, diphtheria, typhoid fever, and so forth, and that Canada's daily sick list could be cut in half if present knowledge and equipment for disease prevention were made available to the public.

Premier Bennett was commended for placing national health before the forthcoming inter-provincial conference of provincial and support was urged to any move which might emerge from the conference towards broader health education.

More than 16,000 persons who heard the addresses, delivered during the showings of "DANGER LIVES" health education film, colored petitions which were forwarded to Ottawa urging representatives at the conference to give national health the utmost consideration.

From an economic as well as a social standpoint health preservation was a national benefit, speakers said. There are 21 million workdays lost annually through illness, which cost the nation for doctors' bills, hospitalization and lost working capacity more than a billion dollars. Also, it was pointed out, there is a relation between illness and indigency which burdens the taxpayer.

Educational programmes sponsored by the Canadian Social Hygiene Council have been of tremendous benefit in improving civic health. Mayor W. J. Stewart said. He credited the Council with having pioneered public interest in health throughout the Dominion, and said that no city could be prouder of any organization than Toronto was of the Council. Its leadership should be followed by a national movement along the same line, he said.

Canada spent annually $11,000,000 in an attempt to cure illness, but only $6,000,000 in its prevention. Dr. W. S. McCullough, Chief Health Inspector for Ontario, pointed out. It is equally well-known that education is the best method of stimulating interest in health.

Knowledge of disease prevention should not be "the prerogative of the few but the right of the many," stated Dr. J. T. Phair, Director of the Child Hygiene Division of the Ontario Department of Health. "Sound public health leadership from above" and "urging from below" alone would achieve successful distribution of health knowledge, said Dr. L. A. Pequegnat, Deputy Medical Officer of Health of Toronto.

Other physicians who spoke included Dr. R. S. Penicott, past president of the Toronto Academy of Medicine, who said the whole future of medicine lay in prevention; Dr. L. McKay of the Provincial Department of Health, who urged each citizen to assume individual responsibility for personal and national health; Dr. Gordon P. Jackson, Medical Officer of Health for Toronto; Dr. George Porter, Health Director for the University of Toronto; and Dr. Alan Brown and F. P. Tisdale, nationally known child specialists.

Women physicians and welfare workers who urged "a women's crusade for health" included Dr. Mildred Newell of Edmonton, public health convenor for the National Council of Women; Dr. Helen MacMurchy, O.B.E.; Mrs. Percival Foster, field secretary of the National Council of the Y.W.C.A.; Dr. Milnera Reid, Toronto school trustee; Mrs. W. J. Jackson, president of the Silver Cross Women of the British Empire; Miss Edna Moore, chief public health nurse in the Child Hygiene Division of the Ontario Government; and Mrs. J. E. Hyne, president of the Local Council of Women.

A relationship existing between disease and ill health was stressed by Judge H. S. Matt of the Toronto Juvenile Court and Hon. Mr. Justice Riddell; and the economic aspect of those who affect labour was presented by Controller Jas. Simpson, vice-president of the Trades and Labour Congress of Canada.

Religious leaders who declared that morality was strengthened by health included Rev. R. C. Buchanan, general home mission secretary for the United Church of Canada, and Rikhi Maurice Eisenbach, one of the best known Jewish leaders in Canada. Dr. Buchanan declared that his experience in Western Canada had induced him to believe there was more need for governmental assistance in medical services to citizens than ever before.

Railway Fog

When does fog become a "railway fog"? An official of the London and North Eastern Railway has explained that it becomes "official" the moment a signalman cannot see a fixed signal 200 yards away. The signalman then forms his stationmaster, and the station-master summons his fog-horn to lay detectors as long as the fog lasts. For fog services there are special timetables which reduce the number of trains by a quarter and lower their speed.—C.N. Railway Magazine.

Preparing For Christmas.

This week we enter the month of December, and the fact cannot any longer be put aside that Christmas is getting very close. It is undoubtedly a time of worry and a great deal of work.

One of the most troublesome of questions is that of selecting and sending presents. If people would only start about the securing of their gifts in time it would be a great deal easier—easier for the purchaser and infinitely easier for the business people.

Christmas goods can be secured right now, just as easily as three weeks hence. Buy a little at a time and wrap the gifts up. You can even put the greetings inside, address the packages, and put them away—and when Christmas comes and there are so many forgotten things to do, there will be a whole lot off your mind.

Working yourself to death, and working the store clerks off their feet around Christmas time might be avoided if the Christmas present question was as carefully arranged as business questions.

Statement by R. S. Law President of U. G. G.

R. S. Law, president of United Grain Growers Limited, issued the following statement on behalf of the board of directors of the company while in Edmonton for the annual meeting of United Grain Growers.

"Impartial inquiry and recommendation, obviously by the board of grain commissioners, is required to learn if any basis were made recently on the Winnipeg exchange by outside interests, and if regulation by the exchange against such attempts is needed."

Mr. Law said that it is "obvious that such matters are not to be satisfactorily settled by a series of contradictory statements issued to the press or by representations by interested parties made directly to the government."

He declared that the board of grain commissioners "command the respect and confidence of the country," and that the body could be "given the status of a commission of inquiry."

Mr. Law said that "the present regulation of grain handling under the provisions of the Canada Grain Act and the board of grain commissioners, represents the accomplishment of years of experience and study, and is to be regarded as a substantial and satisfactory achievement. Whatever changes may from time to time be required in connection with grain handling should be based on the solid foundation already established."

Market Board Personnel Appointed

Personnel of Alberta's first livestock marketing board under the Natural Products Marketing Act was announced recently by Hon. F. S. Grisdale, minister of agriculture.

The board, consisting of fifteen members, was named by the minister at the request of representatives of the livestock industry in general meeting at Calgary, November 8, following the endorsing of a livestock marketing plan for the province.

The marketing plan has been submitted to the Federal Marketing Board at Ottawa, and when it is approved by this body, ratified by the Governor-in-Council, and finally endorsed by vote of Alberta livestock producers, it will be the responsibility of the board now named to determine, within the provisions of the scheme, the procedure to be followed in this province in the marketing of livestock, and to co-ordinate the marketing machinery.

In making his announcement, however, Mr. Grisdale stated that in naming the board it had been found necessary to go outside the personnel of the provisional committee in order that the various areas of the province and the many branches of the industry be fully represented as possible.

The 15 members of the Alberta Livestock Board, named by the minister are: R. P. Giehrst, Wild Horse; George Ross, St. Kitts; W. C. McKenzie, Lethbridge; Stephen Lunn, Pincher Creek; George Millar, Taber; Fulton Thomson, High River; Charles McKinnon, Daermaid; Howard P. Wright, Ardrie; H. L. Tugart, Olds; Fred McDonald, Mirror; C. R. Abbott, Lacombe; T. R. Murray, Tolfield; George R. Ball, Edmonton; H. R. Boutillier, Soda Lake, and Alex Craig, Wembley.

422 Bank of Canada
Shareholders in Alberta.

A total of 422 residents of Alberta are numbered among the 12,062 Canadian shareholders of the Bank of Canada, according to an official list published by the bank in Ottawa.

Ontario heads the list of subscribers in the Dominion with 5,220, while Quebec takes second place with 3,256. The other provinces subscribed as follows: Manitoba 766; British Columbia 745; Saskatchewan 656; Nova Scotia 592; New Brunswick 325; Prince Edward Island 64, and the Yukon 6.

The shares were offered to the public at $50 each, and the act provided that a maximum of 50 might be held by a bona fide resident of Canada, but so great was the demand for shares that this number was reduced by the government to a maximum of 15.

The Alberta list of shareholders taken from the official records issued by the bank shows a wide diversity of citizens who invested. Many took one or two shares, while others subscribed the limit. The shares were quoted on the stock exchange two weeks ago at $55 each.

WEDDINGSUMMERS-RUGGLES

A pretty wedding was solemnized at Knox United Church on Wednesday, November 16, Rev. F. E. Hawley James of Olds officiating, when Miss Annie Ruggles became the bride of Mr. William Summers.

The bride was beautifully attired in white chiffon and lace. She wore a bridal veil of Italian lace (a family heirloom), and carried a bouquet of red roses and white carnations. She was attended by Mrs. Clarence Bolton, sister of the groom, as matron-of-honor, who wore a gown of autumn shades and carried flowers to match. The bride was given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Mr. Thomas Crabby, while Mr. Sidney Summers, brother of the groom, was groomsmen.

Lohengrin's Wedding March was played by Mrs. J. Bowman, and during the signing of the register Mrs. D. Edwards sang "My World."

Following the ceremony a reception was given to the guests at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Wilson, at which Mrs. J. W. Phillips poured tea.

Mr. and Mrs. Summers spent a short honeymoon in Calgary, and are residing on their farm west of Didsbury.

Little Journeys In Science

(By Gordon H. Guest, M.A.)

Recently a French silk manufacturer displayed eighty-six different shades of the color green, showing to what perfection the art of dyeing has been brought. Thought to have originated in India many centuries ago, dyeing was at first confined to the production of just three colors, red, obtained from the madder plant, blue from indigo, and purple, from shellfish. These early dyes were of fine quality and are still to be seen in the mummy cloths in archaic collections. These cloths glow with rich colorings of purple and red. In the city of Florence, Italy, a method of preparing purple dye from certain lichens, was discovered in the thirteenth century, and in 1472 the first dye company was incorporated in London. It was not, however, until the eighteenth century, when scientists interested themselves in the perfection of dyeing process, that the industry became the important one that it is to-day. Dyestuffs were introduced into the process in 1856 by a young British chemist, William Henry Perkins. Perkins was working with aniline, a substance taken from coal tar, in an effort to find quinine. Instead, he discovered amazing coloring properties of certain aniline compounds, which led to a broader field, revealing dye properties in a large number of coal tar products. His work, which resulted in cheap and more versatile dyes, brought him a fortune and a neighborhood, while industry was further revolutionized by the utilization of coal tar, which had hitherto been considered useless.

Artificial dyes are superior to those found in nature, because of their much greater variety and adaptability, qualities which are constantly being further developed in chemical laboratories.

Apparently unconcerned with his journey, Toto, 268-pound baby elephant, was taken by airplane to St. Louis by Mr. and Mrs. Martin Johnson and turned over to the St. Louis Municipal Zoo. The Johnsons, noted big game hunters, flew the animal there in their own plane from New York.

Health Risk

Mustache On Upper Lip Said To Be Real Protection

An upper-lip health risk that may justify the "eyebrow" mustache as a real protector was explained to the American College of Surgeons at Boston.

Any infection of the upper lip, such as might arise from even a trivial razor scratch or whatever risk there may be in kissing, is much more potentially dangerous than similar infection on the lower lip.

The facial mechanisms involved in this situation and the not infrequently fatal results were explained to a symposium on infections by Frederick A. Collier, M.D., of Ann Arbor, Mich. A person with anything larger than an ordinary pimple on the upper lip, he said, really ought to be in bed in a hospital because of what might happen.

Infection of the upper lip can flow up toward the eye, passes the region of the inner angle of the eye and empties into the "cavernous sinus" located on the floor of the skull.

Once there the infection can kill quickly.

Makes Less Silverware

Canada Has Increased Her Production Of Electro-Plate

Possibly her sterling silverware is the most cherished possession of home-loving women. Possibly it is the most cherished of the household necessities. Tableware enters into such dear traditions, reminders of the storied family past. The depression years have told their tale. Less silverware is being manufactured and imported and there is more electro-plate being turned out in Canada. For example, in 1932 the sterling silver hollow-ware and flatware manufactured was valued at $348,000 compared with $401,000 in 1932 but the electro-plate in 1933 was of the value of $1,000,000 compared with 1,412,000 in the previous year. Imported sterling silverware comes mainly from the United Kingdom, some from the United States and a little from Germany. The imports fell off somewhat to $74,000 from $100,000 in 1932. Electroplated imports at $299,000 were a considerable reduction. St. Thomas Times-Journal.

THE TENDERFOOT

By

GEORGE B. RODNEY

Author of "The Coronado Trail,"
"The Canyon Trail," Etc.

SYNOPSIS

"You've fallen heir to a half-share in plenty of trouble," the lawyer told Gerald Keene. "The Broken Spur has been systematically looting the ranch, and old Joe Carr, your partner, is drinking himself into ruin. But Keene decided to go to see what was happening for himself—not to Gerald Keene, half owner of the Hour-Glass Ranch, but as Duro State, tenderfoot in a Montgomery Ward wildest outfit. Dad Kane, desert rat and luckless prospector 191 now, is returning to tell Dustin and Spike Goddard, owners of the Broken Spur ranch, who had grubbed him, of his discovery of a half share in the ranch, and shows samples of the ore. He sees Broken Spur men rustling Hour-glass cattle and protests against it. Joe Carr's daughter, Edith, repulses Dustin when he wished to make her acquaintance, saying when she walked with a man, it would not be with a squaw man. He plans revenge, but has had no opportunity so far. Affairs on the ranch going from bad to worse, Joe Carr dies of drink."

(Now Go On With The Story)

Spike gaped at him. Then very slowly realization came. His eyes gleamed and his red face got redder and his wire-stiff beard seemed to bristle like the mane of an angry bound.

"You know how these damned old fools of prospectors talk. They matters worse old Kane can square himself with Joe Carr by letting him in on what he found on the Hour-glass land. See now?" never see any one to talk to in six months. When they do get a chance the dim gives away and there's a flood. If old Dad Kane goes in to see he'll tell about his gold-find just as sure as God made 101 apples. He can't help it. The matter of Gray and Spike is bound to come out."

Still Spike stared at him. "The full import of what Dustin said had not yet sunk in."

"They'll hardly dare tell what they done," he growled. "I'll mean jail for them, too."

"They'll turn State's evidence and get exemption. That's the way Burke, the Prosecutor's Attorney, wins his cases. You poor fool! Can't you see? You'll look good in a striped suit . . . if it gets that far."

"What do you mean by that? If it got that far?"

"Huh. That's easy. We're none too popular in the Valley. There isn't a Dry Farmer in thirty miles that don't want our holdins. If we win that suit over Soda Springs I'll throw 'em on public lands. They'll be open to all the Dry Farmers. They can water their sheep there, too. That'll run 'em for cattle. Even you know that. . . ."

Spike nodded at that truth; the real reason for the constant feud between sheep and cattlemen.

"It will make no difference to you an' me," said Dustin hotly. "We'll be tucked away where nobody can hurt us. . . . I tell you . . . We're in a hell of a mess. Old Dad Kane know now just what our men have been doin'. Those men will swear to clear themselves, that they were only carryin' out orders from us. I'll all come out. . . . To make Spike Goddard licked his lips in silence and stared at his partner with a feral glare that promised ill to his enemy. He was not a particularly strong man but like most men of his kidney, when driven to bay he could fight desperately.

"Well," he croaked, "what's the answer?"

"That's easy. . . ." Dustin drew a breath of relief. "To plan as he had planned in the last ten minutes was one thing. But man planning devilment needs help. He knew now that he could count on Spike as never before. Dustin went on:

" . . . You and me, Spike, have made too much off the Hour-glass to let it ever get into court. Even old man Carr with all his drunken suspicions, don't know what we've milked him for. Thank the Lord we've been too careful to show the source of our income but . . . We've got a nice wall of cash right now in the Seco bank. Too dangerous to put it in the Seco bank. I figured we might need it for a get-away if some one spills the beans. . . . Like old Dad Kane. He can do it any minute he chooses to open his mouth and talk. The matter boils down to this . . . Old Dad Kane has come in here with the finest ore we've ever seen. It was found on the Hour-glass lands and old man Carr doesn't know of it. While he was lookin' for that ore, old Kane found some of our men at work and can send us to jail for what he saw 'em doin'. Get me? You know what's got to be done. I needn't name it. What's the answer?"

Spike Goddard knew that answer but like his partner he dared not put it in speech. Dustin finally dared it. "Old Kane has got to show us where he found the stuff and then he's got to disappear," he said.

For a long moment silence fell; a silence in which a cricket in the wall chirped loudly and the ticking of the cheap clock on the table sounded like the crack of doom. Spike poured himself another drink. He needed it badly. He knew what was meant.

"How?" he asked hoarsely. "The less you know personally about it the better for us both," said Dustin. "It's a one-man job and I trust no other man where my own life is at stake. All I say is that I'm not goin' to jail to please old man Kane or Carr either. Suit you?"

"It sure does. . . ." Spike had sudden visions of himself in a striped suit and he did not admire it. "I'll help you. . . ."

"Help me hell," said Dustin fiercely. "I tell you it's a one-man job . . . One-and-a-half that is. First I'm goin' in to Seco on business. Be sure you keep old Dad Kane here. Don't let him leave on any excuse. Tell him I've gone to make arrangements for him to go back to open the mine. Keep him here till I get back. I want to find out if I can about old Kane's affairs."

"Huh. From all I hear he ain't got any. How'd you find out?"

"I've got ways you needn't thought of. . . ." Dustin grinned as a coyote grin at sight of game. "The really big thing for us just now is to make Kane show us exactly where his location is. It'd be right bright to have him disappear and then find out we don't know where he found the gold."

He poured himself another drink and picked up his hat.

"I'll be on my way," he said. "Be sure you ride hard on Kane."

Spike watched the departing car and when its following dust-cloud was swallowed up turned away to the kitchen.

He was under no illusions as to what Dustin meant when he said that Kane must disappear. During the many years of their partnership he had seen some curious things. Sometimes he thought that that very partnership was the one reason for their mutual safety. Either could hang the other by too much talk. He knew Dustin was cautious and ruthless and he knew suddenly that his "mind" of old man Kane would put them both beyond arrestation of more money. Dustin was right.

"He'll probably bring home the bacon," he muttered. "Even if he has to kill somebody else's hog to get it."

That was exactly what Sam Dustin proposed to do. He knew that the consequences of such a deed would cost Carr more than he had. He knew that the Broken Spur depredations on the herds of the Hour-glass had put that ranch in the red. He was sure that Joe Carr must owe a lot of money and he meant to find out to whom he owed it. Dustin believed in the strong hand and he knew that Solomon was right when he said: "The borrower is servant to the lender." It was dark when he parked his car before the sheet-iron-fronted saloon in Seco. He strode down the main street, turned off at a dark alley and stopped at a little frame bungalow set well back in a clump of dusty Chinaberry trees. The door was open at his knock and, almost instantly, an old woman holding a stinking kerosene lamp above her head, stood facing him.

"Evenin', Miss Peters," he said civilly enough. "Sam in?"

"He went for the mail," said Mrs. Peters. "He ought to be back in a minute. Come in, Miss' Dustin. There comes Sam now," she added.

Something to Know

If you want to revive wilted lettuce or other salad greens, put them in a pan of ice water to which has been added a cupful of vinegar. Let them set for half an hour and they'll be quite crisp. Incidentally, if you wrap lettuce in newspaper and stick the ends of the towel in a dish of water, it will keep fresh for days.

Free Samples at Druggists of the Remarkable New Aid in the Prevention of Colds

Local Druggists Are Now Offering A Free Trial Of Vicks Vapo-nol For Nose and Throat—Also Of Its Ideal Companion, Vicks VapoRub

NEW PREVENTION IDEA

This Discovery Introduces Unique Vicks Plan For Better Colds-Control

HOW VICKS PLAN WORKS

Following years of research on the problem of colds, Vicks Chemists have developed a new aid in preventing colds—Vicks Vapo-nol for nose and throat. This new Vicks preparation is the ideal companion to Vicks Vapo-Rub, the modern method of treating colds.

These two Vicks preparations, together with a few simple rules of health, form the Unique Vicks Plan for Better Control of Colds. The helpfulness of the plan is shown by the number and duration of colds has been clinically tested by physicians. Full details of the Plan are in each package of Vicks Vapo-nol and of Vicks VapoRub.

Briefly, here is how Vicks Plan works:

To Help Prevent Colds

Watch yourself and children after exposure to any condition that you know is apt to be followed by a cold, such as:

—Contact with others having fresh colds.—Crowds, stuffy ill-ventilated rooms, public places.—Sudden changes in temperature—excesses in living, such as over-eating, smoking or drinking, which reduce body resistance.

Wherefore beloved be diligent that ye may be found of Him in peace without spot, and blameless? 2 Peter 3:14.

His conscience knows no secret stings.

While grace and joy combine To form a life whose holy springs Are hidden and divine.

—Isaac Watts.

Even the smallest detection of conscience may render turbid the whole temper of the mind; but only produce the effort that restores its peace, and over the whole atmosphere a breath of unexpected purity is spread, doubt and irritability pass as clouds away, the withered sympathies of earth and home open their leaves and live, and through the clearest blue the deep is seen of the heaven where God resides.—J. Martineau.

The state of mind that is described, meekness, or quietness of spirit, is characterized in a high degree by inward harmony. There is not as formerly that inward jarring of thought contending with thought, and conscience asserting rights which it could not maintain.

Jumpy Nerves

Yield to the soothing action of this medicine. You will eat better . . . sleep better . . . feel better . . . look better. Life will seem worth living again. Don't delay any longer. Begin taking it today.

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND

Alas! (to garage man) "Henry Garshbitt tried to make me believe he'd driven the same car for five years and never paid a cent for repairs. Do you believe that?" Garage man: "Yes! I'm the fellow who's made all the repairs."

Change of Climate, Diet, Water Often the Cause of Diarrhoea

If you are suddenly attacked with Diarrhoea, Dysentery, Colic, Cramps, Pains in the Stomach, Summer Complaint or any Looseness of the Bowels, do not waste valuable time, but get a bottle of Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry and see how quickly it will relieve you.

This bowel complaint remedy has been on the market for the past 38 years and you are not experimenting with some new and untried medicine.

Do not accept a substitute. Get "Dr. Fowler's" when you ask for it, and be on the safe side.

Put up only by The T. Millbrae Co., Ltd., Toronto, Ont.

Then—at the slightest irritation in the nasal passages, where most colds start—use Vicks Vapo-nol at once, just as you drip up each nostril. Repeat every hour or so as needed. Vapo-nol aids Nature's functions—in the nose—to prevent colds, and to throw off colds in their early stages. Used in time, Vapo-nol aids in preventing many colds.

To Help Shorten a Cold

If a cold has developed, rub Vicks VapoRub well over throat and chest at bedtime. Through the night, VapoRub attacks the cold direct—two ways at once—by stimulation, direct through the skin, like a poultice or plaster—and by inhalation of its medicated vapors direct to the inflamed air-passages. This long-continued double action loosens phlegm, soothes irritated membranes, eases difficult breathing, and helps break congestion.

During the day—any time, any place—use Vicks Vapo-nol every few hours as needed. This gives you full 24-hour treatment without the risks of constant internal dosing, which so often upsets the digestion—especially of children.

Trial Packages Free

Your druggist has free combination packages containing trial sizes of Vapo-nol and VapoRub—also folder telling how these twin aids to fewer colds and shorter colds are used in Vicks Plan for Better Control of Colds. Ask for yours today, as your druggist's supply is limited.

INFANTS' COLDS Relieved/

Young children easily catch cold. So Mrs. Russell Ward, of Hilton Beach, Ont., wisely says: "I advise that when a child has a cold I give Baby's Own Tablets and they are a safe and sure remedy. Thousands of mothers do the same for their children for colds, coughs, croup, whooping cough, measles, indigestion, constipation, and all the ailments of infancy. Baby's Own Tablets are safe and sure in relieving children's common ailments."

New Industry

Plant For Production Of Sodium Sulphate May Come To Saskatchewan

Establishment of a new industry in Saskatchewan, believed to be for the production of sodium sulphate, is being contemplated by a firm of manufacturing companies with head office in New Jersey, and branch offices in Montreal and Toronto.

Government officials received a communication recently from officials of the firm asking for detailed information concerning labor and coal costs, and other particulars. The location of the plant, according to the letter, would be in southern Saskatchewan, near the United States border, some 12 miles from the nearest railway.

"Smilin' Through" New Norma Shearer Hit

With Norma Shearer as its star, and one of the most brilliant supporting casts yet assembled for the speaking screen, Metro-Goldwyn
Mayer's lavish production of "Smilin'
Through" comes to the Opera House
this Saturday.

Miss Shearer in the feminine lead flows in the footsteps of Jane Cowl, who achieved one of her greatest successes in the record-breaking
New York stage run of the play from which the screen production was adapted. Opposite her is Fred-ric March, borrowed from Paramount to play the dual role of Jeremy Wayne in the mid-Victorian sequences of the story, and Kenneth Wayne his son, in the modern scenes.

Leslie Howard and O. P. Heggie, who left the screen to fulfill stage engagements on Broadway during the past season, were brought back to Hollywood to add further lustre to Miss Shearer's cast. Both these distinguished actors have appeared previously with the star, Howard in "A Free Soul," and Heggie in
"The Actress." The cast also includes Ralph Forbes, Beryl Mercer, David Torrence, Margaret Seddon and Forrester Harvey, under the direction of Sidney Franklin.

The story is of an old man who seeks to shed the relentless bitterness of his blighted romance on a pair of young lovers. The colorful background provides a contrast between the England of 1868 and modern days.

Messrs. Joe Rist and Fred Metz

mer and Jake Brown were delegates

Deer on Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Arlensson,

garet Coyne, Joe Rist, Robert Eckel

About twenty-five relatives met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. J.
Shedley last Thursday evening for a farewell supper to Mr. and Mrs.
Sam Shantz and Edna who have been visiting here for the last few months and who left for their home at Milford, Nebraska, on Friday morning.

Two hockey teams from the Public School have organized, both 12 years and under. The "Black Hawks" have chosen Vernon De Witt as captain, while George Kercher is the "Eagles" choice as captain. Eddie Buhr has been appointed manager and coach of the team.
From reports received both agreements are eager to "get cracking" and both captains seem pretty confident of their respective team's ability.
